Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's recent amendment presents claims 1-6 as originally filed, however, claims 1-6 were amended in AMDT A, PTO Paper #8, filed 10-1-03. As such, the examiner issues this office action based on the amended form of claims 1-6 as noted above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 7-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jonsson in view of Ziegler.

Claims 7 and 11: Jonsson discloses a method and apparatus for a handheld piconet device, comprising a piconet front-end and means for using a code and providing to said device unique addresses of at least two (FIG) devices associated with the passcode in a common piconet network in response to the code (paragraphs 0028-0031).

Jonsson fails to disclose that the code is based on an entered passcode.

Ziegler discloses the utility of using a user-entered passcode to send an inquiry page such as that taught by Jonsson (col 6 line 34-col 7 line 20). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Jonsson to accept user input, as it would be beneficial in starting the inquiry process, as suggested by Ziegler.

Claims 8 and 12: Jonsson discloses that the addresses are provided by other piconet devices in the network.

Claims 9, 10, 13 and 14: Jonsson discloses a master BLUETOOTH device.

4. Claims 1, 2 and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jonsson in view of Ziegler and Logan.

Claim 1: Jonsson discloses a handheld piconet device, comprising a piconet front-end and a unique address (paragraph 0025), and means for associating a code (reads selection module) with the device and at least one other unique address of another network device (paragraphs 0028-0031).

Jonsson fails to disclose that the code is based on a passcode, or that the passcode is much smaller than the unique address.

Ziegler discloses the utility of using a user-entered unique address to send an inquiry page such as that taught by Jonsson (col 6 line 34-col 7 line 20).

Logan discloses that the aforementioned unique address also has a "user friendly" device name which may be shorter (up to 248 bytes long, compared to a fixed 48 bits, ).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Jonsson to accept user input, as it would be beneficial in starting the inquiry process, as suggested by Ziegler, and to use the shorter Device Name of Logan, as it would be more "user friendly".

Claims 2 and 6: it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to store lists of the received addresses associated with the given passcode, given that Logan discloses that the inquiry is for finding and providing the user with the information (col 4 lines 29-45). Claims 4 and 5: Jonsson, Ziegler and Logan all disclose BLUETOOTH systems, which use a 48-bit address.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jonsson in view of Ziegler and Logan as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Mauney, of record.

Jonsson in view of Ziegler and Logan discloses applicant's invention of claim 2, but fails to disclose that the PIN may be selectable from a list.

Mauney discloses a wireless group communicating device similar to that taught by Jonsson, Ziegler and Logan, wherein lists of addresses of other user's devices may be stored in numbers of groups and subgroups for retrieval by the user according to a list of associated passcodes (col 16 lines 6-36, col 29 lines 51-67, col 52 lines 9-21).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the BLUETOOTH system of Jonsson in view of Ziegler and Logan to use the user-friendly system of Mauney, as Logan discloses providing the addresses so that the home device may locate and communicate with other devices, which would be easier for the user with a listing method of Mauney.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Lunsford, Larsson, Roundtree and Novakov discuss BLUETOOTH systems.
